LAUDATE HOMINEM

*Laudate Dominum
Laudate Dominum*

The authorities scanned
our moods
as they killed
in some God's name,
in some God's name
they killed a man:
in that God's name
they absolved themselves.
Then they called God
then they called that man God and in his name
new name
more men,
more more men they killed.

*I don't want to think of you as the son of God but as the son of man, my brother too.
Laudate.*

Once more
we embraced this creed that teaches we have, we have the right to be forgiven, to be forgiven for all the evil committed in the name of a God
who did not want evil,
who did not want evil,
until he was a man, a man.

*I don't want to think of you as the son of God
but as the son of man, my brother too.
Laudate, laudate Dominum.*

Somebody
somebody
tried to imitate him
if he did not succeed
he was excused,
he too was forgiven
because you cannot imitate imitate a god,
a god must be feared

and honoured, honoured...

Laudate hominem...
No, I must not think of you as the son of God
but as the son of man, my brother too
but as the son of man, my brother too.
